16. William Horwood

William Horwood is the writer of the Duncton Chronicles. The series is also known as the 'Book of Silence', referring to the second series that makes up the Duncton world. The fictional line of novels first became available for readers to enjoy in 1980. The engaging debut story from Horwood is titled Duncton Wood.

17. William Horwood novelist

William Horwood (born 12 May 1944 in Oxford) is an English novelist. He grew up on the East Kent coast, primarily in Deal, within a model modern family – fractious with "parental separation, secret illegitimacy, alcoholism and genteel poverty".. Between the ages of six and ten, he was raised in foster care, attended school in Germany for a year, then went on to Grammar School at age eleven.

18. Awakening A Hyddenworld novel by William Horwood Book

AWAKENING: A Hyddenworld novel by William Horwood. Macmillan, h/c, £17.99. Reviewed by Pauline Morgan. William Horwood first came to the notice of the reading public with his two Duncton Wood trilogies which were published in the wake of the success of Watership Down by Richard Adams. These were the anthropomorphised adventures of the animals that live there.

20. Hyddenworld

William Horwood is a master of characterisation and it is often tempting to go over bits of his prose simply to savour the quality of his description, some of which is very funny in this book.

21. Customer reviews Harvest Hyddenworld

I've previously praised William Horwood's Hyddenworld series, a quartet of novels about the 'hydden' - the small people who have lived secretly alongside humans for thousands of years, adept at 'hyddening' to make themselves go unnoticed.

22. Review Hyddenworld

I haven't read William Horwood's Duncton Wood novels, which I've only heard good things about. So Hyddenworld - Spring, his first fantasy in 15 years, was his first novel for me. I was expecting to be moved by this book after having read the blurb and an early review. Unfortunately this book disappointed me in various areas:
